

A visual simulation of the Proposed Project from Key Viewpoint 3 in the vicinity of the new residential development just east of the proposed substation site and immediately north of San Timoteo Canyon Road. This view is to the southwest toward the proposed El Casco substation, which is located in the Norton Younglove Reserve, immediately south of San Timoteo Canyon Road. The proposed substation would be visible in views from the residential development though it would not be a dominant feature in the context of the surrounding hills and transmission lines.
