

Become a Member of the Disadvantaged Communities Advisory Group!

Why Join the Disadvantaged Communities Advisory Group – or DACAG?

Becoming a member of the DACAG is an opportunity to represent your community or constituency to promote equitable access to affordable clean energy and its benefits in pursuit of environmental and social justice for all Californians.

What is the Role of the DACAG?

By statute, DACAG members advise the California Energy Commission and the California Public Utilities Commission regarding the development, implementation, and impacts of clean energy programs in disadvantaged communities. (SB 350, De León)

What issues does the DACAG Consider?

In 2022, the DACAG's priorities include:

- Building Decarbonization & Electrification
- Clean Energy and System Reliability
- Transportation Electrification
- Gas System Transition
- Distributed Energy Resources
- Affordability
- Community Engagement
- Workforce Training & Development

Am I a good fit for the DACAG?

If you are tuned-in to your community and can voice its perspective to promote equitable clean energy, the DACAG may be for you! DACAG members meet publicly one half-day per month plus contribute to select priority subgroups. The DACAG serves Californians best when it is diverse and represents all disadvantaged communities.

For more information, visit the DACAG website. There, you'll find the board's Annual Report, meeting materials and videos, and bios of current board members. To apply to become a DACAG member (or for questions), please send a resume and letter of interest to DAC-AG@cpuc.ca.gov. We are continually seeking interest of community representatives and will reply as seats become available.
